

music for march

- 3-4     corey jenkins     It' Industry Night at Vermilion. We're turning water into wine this Sunday and tonight we're featuring Corey Jenkins... Corey Jenkins is changing the perception of acoustic music. It's upbeat, powerful and driving. He's a powerhouse of a vocalist and an extraordinary guitar player. His lyrics are thought provoking and provide great imagery. He does perform a number of covers from varying genres putting his own spin on them and it's captivating. Visit him at coreyjenkinsmusic.com www.facebook.com/coreyjenkinsmusic
- 3-6     jon kaplan     Bicycle Thieves front man Jon Kaplan won the Washington Area Music Awards (Wammies) for Best Alternative Rock vocalist two years in a row with music The Washington Post calls "smart, rocking pop songs." While the Bicycle Thieves continue to garner more awards and coveted performance slots in the DC area (including a spotlight performance on DC 101 and a showcase at the HFStival), tonight in the lounge lead singer Jon Kaplan brings us acoustic versions of the tunes that continue to bring his band brilliant reviews.
- 3-7     bobby thompson     Known for his fiery electric blues guitar style and power trio group, Bobby Thompson also has a softer and soulful acoustic side. He draws in the crowd with his subtle, but powerful, vocal style whether playing acoustic guitar or Weissenborn slide (like Ben Harper). He has shared the stage with such star musicians as Mick Fleetwood, Bobby Parker and members of Steely Dan.
- 3-13     judge smith     The Judge Smith acoustic duo covers the gamut of rock music - from classics to indie progressive - with arrangements featuring distinctive vocal and instrumental harmonies. The duo features Edward Smith on vocals and guitar and John David Coppola on bass guitar and vocals. Both Ed and John recently returned from international tours - Ed performed solo in Portugal, while John toured Japan and China with Pete Kronowitt from LA." www.judgesmith.net
- 3-14     laura tsaggaris     Laura Tsaggaris, a D.C.-based pop/folk singer and songwriter who found her calling at 16 when she first picked up a guitar, is currently touring in support of her first full-length independent recording, "Proof." She joins us for an intimate set of her music. More information on this gifted emerging artist can be found online at www.lauratsaggaris.com.
- 3-20     the reserves     Tonight The Reserves perform acoustic versions of songs off their two albums, "Where Have All the Dreamers Gone" and "Life;" as well as pays tribute to some of his favorite songwriters (Josh Ritter, Adam Duritz, Paul Simon, and David Gray). The Reserves have been featured numerous times on radio and TV and in print and have performed to sold out crowds along the east coast. Visit reservesmuisc.com to hear tunes.
- 3-21     justin trawick     Justin Trawick is not just another man with a guitar. He's a multi-talented performer, expertly balancing between roles as a solo singer/songwriter and band front man. His self-described brand of "Urban Folk Rock" inspires comparisons with troubadours such as Bob Schneider, Ryan Adams, and G. Love. The 27 year old from Arlington, Virginia, invokes on stage a deep sense of raw emotional energy stemming from his incredibly personable lyrics and captivating delivery. www.justintrawick.com
- 3-27     dave ihmels     bio coming...
- 3-28     jelly roll mortals     This collection of versatile, seasoned musicians and songwriters have logged a great deal of time playing and recording with some of DC's finest ensembles of the past 20 years. They perform tonight with their great songs, tight harmonies, instrumental prowess and good humor can be fully appreciated. Recently, The Mortals were nominated for Best Roots-Rock Duo or Group in 2008. Catch them tonight!